

EDINBURGH SCULPTURE WORKSHOP

After years of fundraising and planning Edinburgh's sculptors are starting to realise the benefits of their new workspace. The purpose built studios, exhibition space and workshops are a far cry from the draughty old railway shed that they occupied for the previous 15 years.

A combination of concrete and galvanized steel create a solid, robust feel which reflects the area's industrial past. The louvered panels which provide the striking clean lines were supplied by Highland's long term customer Lang and Fulton.
